

THE U.S. ARMY MATERIEL COMMAND

4400 Martin Rd. Redstone Arsenal, AL 35898

Providing the Warfighter with the Decisive Edge!

U.S. Army Contracting Command Fact Sheet

A major subordinate command of the Army Materiel Command, the U.S. Army Contracting Command's Soldiers, civilians and contractors support warfighters worldwide by acquiring equipment, supplies and services vital to our Soldiers' mission and well-being. From food and clothing to bullets and bombs; from tanks, trucks and Humvees to boats and planes; from their weapons to the installations where they work and live with their families, ACC ensures our Soldiers have what they need to be successful at home and at work.

As the Army's business conduit, ACC offers the contracting expertise of some of the best trained people in the Army, ready to support the war fighter while ensuring responsible stewardship of taxpayers' funds. ACC ensures contracting support to the war fighter as mission requirements emerge and as the Army transforms and moves within the continental United States and throughout the globe.

An international business enterprise, the command awards more than 210,000 contracts each year valued at more than $92 billion, which is equal to 66 percent of the Army's contract dollars and 17 percent of the total dollars spent on contracts by the entire federal government. ACC accomplishes this with more than 5,500 military and civilian employees at more than 115 locations worldwide.

Currently headquartered at Fort Belvoir, Va. is a two-star level command with two subordinate one-star commands, the Expeditionary Contracting Command and the Mission and Installation Contracting Command, and seven major contracting centers that provide support to AMC's life cycle management commands and major subordinate commands.

The Expeditionary Contracting Command provides effective and agile contracting services across the full spectrum of military operations for Army commanders and joint war fighters as well as to other Defense organizations at locations outside the continental United States. ECC accomplishes this vital mission through seven Contracting Support Brigades, eight Contingency Contracting Battalions and 83 Contingency Contracting Teams throughout the world.

The Mission and Installation Contracting Command provides contracting capabilities and services within the continental United States and its customers include the U.S. Army Installation Management Command, U.S. Army Forces Command, the U.S. Army Training and Doctrine Command, the U.S. Army Reserve Command and the U.S. Army Medical Command. MICC utilizes seven contracting centers and 35 contracting offices throughout the United States, Alaska and Puerto Rico.

With a wealth of contracting expertise, ACC professionals are dedicated to providing the highest quality of contracting support to all of their customers, whenever and wherever needed. A combat multiplier, the Army Contracting Command is doing its part in to keep the Army strong.
